Investment professionals making investments for the Submitter are keenly aware of concerns about potential human rights issues in Burma. These issues are important and are among the factors that can affect companies’ long-term prospects for success. Any human rights issues that may affect companies are considered by our investment professionals as part of the investment management process. This approach is consistent with the stated investment objectives and policies of the Submitter. The adviser to the Submitter believes considering these issues on a company-by-company basis and as part of the investment management process is the best approach to investing in countries such as Burma.

5. Arrangement with Security Service Providers

The Submitter does not have arrangements with Security Service Providers. It is a minority (less than 5%), non-controlling investor in the publicly traded shares of the Company and does not have any arrangements with any security service providers in Burma.
